Also we are going to give the ecoli SOC to Labadie. If EPA wishes to object based upon a state reg I think that will be their purgative. It is not efficient for me to kick them to enforcement because of the inability for permit's section to get the requirement in the permit timely. Additionally, the outcome would be the same as enforcement would give them a schedule.

They are a category that the requires stormwater permits. However, they are often given no exposure waivers, but not always. If they don't have a waiver they are usually covered by a general industrial stormwater permit. Hope that helps
